Sections 2-6: Narrative components

2. Research summary (maximum 250 words) Provide a summary in lay terms of the proposal, highlighting project objectives and deliverables, and describing how the research is relevant to IfP's research themes to address the challenges of PHE.
3. Research proposal (maximum 3 pages of text, with up to 20 references submitted as an attachment; maximum 1 additional page for supporting tables and figures) Provide an overview of the proposed research, including background, methods, and deliverables.
4. Curriculum vitae (maximum 4 pages) The CV must contain the following sections: education, relevant research/work experience, academic awards, conference presentations and other speaking engagements and publications.
5. Letter of support from the main (host) supervisor (maximum 1 page) The letter should address how the project represents an area of IfP-relevant research that is not covered by existing grants. It must also state a commitment to provide the fellow with office and lab space (if relevant) for the duration of the program. The letter should be emailed directly by the host to ifp.dlsph@utoronto.ca with the applicant's full name in the subject line for reference.
6. Academic letter of recommendation (maximum 1 page) Letter of recommendation should be emailed directly by the author to ifp.dlsph@utoronto.ca with the applicant's full name in the subject line for reference.
